Fort Amla- Charismatic Antiquity

There are only two ways you can go back in time, live the history and live in an ambience that existed ages ago. There's the mythical time machine and there's mystical Fort Amla!

Yes Fort Amla stands as a glorious edifice to the valour of decedents of Bappa Rawal who had founded the Amla Riyasat. The indomitable Rajput warrior Maharana Pratap, the ruler of Mewar, whose stubborn opposition to the Mughal aggressions immortalised in the annals of Indian History was the 5th Decadent in the dynasty. Maharana Raj Singh, born in 1630 AD, the fifth decadent of the brave king annexed Ajmer and Banera Shahpur in 1658.

The conquest of Malwa by the Marathas in 1736-37 AD and later by the Scindias did not in any way affect the sovereign status of the feudal kingdom.

The present King Rajendra Singh ascended the throne in 1948 AD and has worked for the upliftment his erstwhile state, which is mirrored in him being successful in getting honour of the heritage village bestowed on this village.

Amla fort - One of the only two heritage hotels in a heritage village

Amla-A Heritage Village

beginning of a new era

Here a wealth of local craft awaits you. Aaat bazaar is developed in the village, where you can see artisans making crafts and can directly purchase it from them. Exquisitely crafted silverware and leather artifacts, which local craftsmen create, are matchless. Embellished with unique embroidery the hand stitched mojris, designed by the people here, are famous throughout the world.

Tranquil and peaceful Amla village is a paragon of royal traditions

FORT AMLA - A HERITAGE HOTEL

Fort Amla is ensconced in the serene rolling plateau of Malwa, in the pristine environment reminiscent of the golden ages long bygone. The impressive heritage of the royal past is abundantly reflected in the architectural excellence of the palace and the spellbinding traditional interiors preserved with impeccability, seemingly untouched by the passage of time.

The hotel has 11 regal rooms, capacious beyond belief bedecked with royal decor, each done in a unique traditional style of Rajputana decor.

The fort is situated at the outer western fringe of Amla Village. Where the crisp cool breeze drifts in through the cupolas and the view of the village is breathtaking.
